Overview

Munck Wilson Mandala has a distinguished trade secret litigation practice. When you hire our trade secret litigation team, you hire a firm built around technology clients and their specific needs. Our attorneys have diverse and distinguished technical backgrounds and business experience, and we are known for our focused, strategic, high-caliber representation in a wide range of trade secret and unfair competition matters.

This is a complex area of law where federal law offers limited protection, state laws vary, and the law constantly changes from legislative action and court decisions. MWM helps clients identify and correct holes in the protection of their trade secrets and proprietary information, and implement cost-effective strategies to identify and safeguard company secrets and information through internal policies, training practices, and confidentiality agreements. In the event those protections fail, we aggressively defend you against allegations, including trade secret misappropriation, breaches of restrictive covenants, breaches of fiduciary duty, employee raiding, tortious interference with business relations and contracts, unfair competition, violation of the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, and similar claims.

We are known for our groundbreaking jury verdicts in IP litigation disputes, many involving the infringement of trade secrets. Through tenacious research and strategy, we develop trade secret litigation cases that stand against cross-examination and convince judges and juries to award decisions favorable to our clients.
